THE RASCALS MUST GO.

THE PRESIDENT BOUNCES A DE-FAULTING POSTMASTER.

Hibs Senate Does Not Do Its Duty in Removing Rascale, the President will do His in Suspending Them—The Case of the Rome, New York, Postmaster in Point—Other Notes.

Washington, April 6 .- The postmaster at Rome, New York, was to-day suspended from further duty in his office by order of the president, and James B. Corcoran has been designated to perform the duties of the office in his stead. The president proposed the removal postmaster and nominate Corcoran to the senate at the recent session, and sa it failed to take action on the nominanation, the postmaster general applied to the president for his direction in the case. The president sent the following:

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER. Hen. William F. Vilas, Postmaster Generals Dear S.t-In answer to your inquiry as to the disposition to be made of the case of the postmaster at Rome, N. Y., which was presented to the senate on the 26th day of March, with the recommenda-tion that he be removed for cause, and which proposition was not acted upon prior to the adjourn-ment of that body on the 2d of April, I have to say that to me it clearly seems to be my duty to exercise by prompt action in this case, all the power which the present condition of the law has left in my hands, so far as it may be done independently of the senate, to protect the interest of the govern-ment, to vindicate the, laws which have been enacted for the regulation of the postal service and to impress upon federal officeholders the fact that no incuigence will be granted by the executive to those who violate the law or neglect public duty.

THE POSTMASTER'S PAULT.
This pestmaster, under section 4044 of the United states revised statutes, and the regulatiers of the post office department, was required to trausmit to the department a weekly report of the business done by him in the money-order report of an inspector of the postoffice department before May and which was submitted to the ccmmittee of the senate while the proposition to remove this official was before it that an examination of his office was ordered on the 26th day of January 1885, in consequence of the fact that no such weekly reports had been made since the 6th day of December, 1884. It further appears from this report that on such examination appeared the most disgraceful confusion in all that pertained to the accounts and financial condition of the office; that there had been no entry in the money order cash book since July, 1884, and that, as might have been expected, there was a deficiency in the money order accounts of more than $700, and in the postal accounts of more than $400. There is, I think, no dispute touching these facts.

LAME EXCUSES PRERENTED. The deficiency has been refunded to the governmentunder an arrangement withone of the sureties of the delinquent official, and he attempts to exleging that his assistant had entire charge of the money order business, as well as all other details of the office. In making such an excuse as this, this officer admits, it seems to me, a violation of his plain duty in turning over the operation of bis effice to an assistant without any pretext of reckness or unavoidable absence of the postmaster, which is contrary to costmaster, which is contrary to a reasonable construction of section 4031 of the Revised Statutes, which provides that "in case of sickness or unavoidable abs nee of the postmaster of any money order postoffice, he may, with the approval of the postmaster general, authorize the to act in his place and to discharge all the duties required by law of such postmaster." By the claim now made, that the assistant having had full charge, is responsible for the delinquencies and irregularities complained of, the postmaster also appears to contradict his own sworn statement, made to the department as late as September 4, 1281.

SUCH MEN MUST GO. shall do all that is in my power to rid the put lie service of officials who exhibit such loose ideas of their duty to the government. The fact that I have before me the documents signed by many residents of the city where this postmaster is residents of the city where this postmaster is located, and who belong to both political parties, asserting their utmost confidence in his honesty and fidelity, demonstrates the unfortunate fatality with which papers may be obtained, and gives rise to an unpleasant suspicion touching the too prevalent standard of political dishonesty. If I cannot remove this delinquent postmaster, I can surely suspend him. This I have determined to do promptly, and I desire you at once to present to me the papers necessary for that purpose, with the designation of William B. Corcoranto perform the duties of postmaster in place of the official thus suspended.

Postmasters MUST NOT BE ABOVE WORK.

The postmaster general added that the pres-

The postmaster general added that the present may be a good opportunity to say, that from some evidences before him, he believes the the notion to be prevalent, and the practice be general accordingly, that postmasters should have allowances for clerks sufficient to enable the business of their offices to be transacted chiefly by them, while the postmaster himself—though the best paid—should be required to give no personal labor beyond his occasional supervision. This case illustrates what may happen from such a practice. If the excuse of supervision. This case illustrates what may happen from such a practice. If the excuse of the Rome postmaster be true in fact, and in every case of default the clerk or assistant will be made the scapegoat. It is the intention of the department to make a careful scrutiny of these allowances, and to reduce them when necessary, materially requiring the postmaster to give his personal time and attention to the duties of the office, and to assist in their performance, except in those few larger offices where his time may be necessarily required in general supervision. It is believed that by such a course the public will be much better served, and that considerable reduction in the annual expendetures of the department may be realized.

A SENATOR'S OPINION.

A member of the senate committee on postoffices and postroads, who was asked to-night by an associated press reporter for an opinion of the failure of that committee to act upon the nomination of Corcoran to supersede the incumbent of the postmustership at Rome, N.Y., in view of the president's statement that the charges sgainst the incumbent were laid kefore that committee, said that he is under the impression that the committee agreed to report favorable on Corcoran's nomination, and that in the hurry of the closing hours of the session, the member having the report in charge failed to make it. Such a failure, he said, did occur in the case of the nomination to fill the vacancy in Pennsylvania, and he added that he is confirmed in the belief that it occurred in this case.

Minister Foster to Return to Madrid.

Washington, April 6.—Secretary Bayard having requested Minister Foster to return to Madrid after making a brief visit to Indiana, he expects to sail from New York to Spain on the 22nd instant.

While he is still retained as United States minister, Mr. Foster goes to Spain more especially in connection with the Spanish treaty. On his return from Indiana, and before sailing from New York, he will have a consultation with Secretary Bayard in relation to further regotiations. The secretary will then communicate to him the views of the new administration on the pending treaty.

CHEER FROM TENNESSEE. Congratulations to Cleveland and Hen-

Washington, April 6.—The Tennessee delegation to day presented the president the congratulatory resolutions adopted by the Tennessee legislature on the 22d of February. The delegation consisted of Senators Harris and Jackson and Representatives Ballentine, McMillan, Neal, Richardson and Taylor, accompanied by citizens from Tennessee. Senator Harris, in a few well chosen and pertinent words, presented a copy of the resoludricks. schator Harris, in a few well chosen and per-tinent words, presented a copy of the resolu-tion to President Cleveland, who responded in a felicitous manner. After a short, pleasant conversation with the president the delegation called on the vice-president, to whom Senator Jackson presented a copy of the resolutions to which the vice-president responded.

WEST VIRGINIA GAINS HER POINT.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Condemed to Payits Taxes.

Washington, April 6.—A decision was rendered by the supreme court of the United States to day, in the tax case of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway company, plaintiff in error against Joseph S. Miller, auditor of the state of West Virginia, in error to the supreme court of appeals of that state. The question raised by this case is the constitutionality of an act of the legislature of West Virginia passed March 7th, 1879, subjecting the property of the railway company to taxation. The company maintained that by an act of the legislature of March 1st, 1866, entitled "an act to incorporate the Covington and Ohio railroad company," and another act passed February 26th, 1867, authorizing that company to consolidate with the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad company, it, as the successor of the latter corporation, was exempted from taxation so long as the profits should not amount to ten per cent of its capital; and that the subsequent act imposing taxation irresponsible of this condition is void, because it impairs the obligation of a contract. demned to Pay its Taxes.

This court holds that the acts from which the plaintiff in error derives its corporate existence and powers in West Virginia, do not contain a renewal of the grant of exemption from taxation, contained in the seventh section of the act of March 1, 1856; that the present company can, in no sense, be regarded as the identical corporate body, of which it became the successor; and that all its rights as a corporation other than the title to the property it acquired by judicial sale, had their origin in and depended upon an act passed in 1871, and amended in 1877. Such being the case, the present company's charter rests upon case, the present company's charter rests upon the general law, which the constitution of the state declares to be subject to alteration and amendment; and, therefore, the exercise of legislative discretion in the matter of taxation cannot be complained of as a breach of con-

SLUGGER SULLIVAN'S SKIP. He Fails to Turn up to Close Engagement With Mitchell.

With Mitchell.

New York, April 6.—John L. Sullivan has again given the sports of New York the skip. The Police Gazette folice was crowded with sporting men to witness the arrangements for a mill between Sullivan and Charles Mitchell. Mitchell was on hand early, smiling and good natured. He was dressed in a spring suit and from his general appearance would not be taken for a slugger. Sullivan, as usual, failed to keep his engagement. Looks of disgust stole over the faces of the crowd. William E. Harding said in ment. Looks of disgust stole over the faces of the crowd. William E. Harding said in behalf of Sullivan: "Sullivan has to be here Tuesday to make arrangements for a fight with Rysn, and as he has been tendered a reception in the meantime at Philadelphia which will ret him $1,500, he thought it best to stay until after that. He will be here Tuesday, when he can arrange both fights and kill two birds with one stone."

Mitchell, who was thoroughly disgusted, Mitchell, who was theroughly disgusted, said: "I have an offer of $2,500 and expenses to go to San Francisco. I deferred accepting it until after to-day because I want to fight Sullivan. I have never disappointed a man yet, and am here to make the match. I will tell what I am willing to do. There is no need for Sullivan to fight both Ryan and myself. I am willing to fight Ryan for $1,000 and then let the winner fight him."

Richard K. Fox is receiving petitions from many places in the west and some in the south asking for the honor of having the Sullivan-Ryan fight. Some of the petitions are signed by long lists of persons who claim to be the first citaens of the various places. It is said that the fiasco of Thursday night gave Sulli-van an excuse for going off on one of his sprees.

Asked to Stay a Little Longer. who informed him that he would like him to remain in the office for at least six or eight days longer. This action is said to be based on representations by the commissioner of internal revenue that Mr. Chesley's services were very desirable in closing up the operations of the revenue bureau for the present fiscal year. It is also understood that the attorney-general coincided heartly in the request that his resignation be withdrawn.

Carrington Plends Guilty. Washington, April 6.—Daniel Carrington, ex-chiet clerk of the bureau of medicine and surgery of the navy department, to-day pleaded guilty on four indictments, in what are known as the navy fraud cases. Other indictments are pending against Carrington, but these will not be pressed. Kirkwood, a fellow clerk of Carrington, has been convicted of complicity in these grimes, and is now under

GRANT SINKING. AN ALLEGED LETTER FROM JEF

FERSON DAVIS. General Grant Feels That He will Live for Some Time Yet, and Talks Pleasantly—An Examin-ation of His Throat Shows it to be Im-proving—A Change for the Worse,

NEW YORK, April 6.-The Sun publishes a paragraph to the effect that General Grant received on Saturday a letter of sympathy from Jefferson Davis, which gratified him and touched him very deeply. If, said Mr. Davis, the prayers and good wishes of all those in the south who honored and respected General Grant, could avail, he would conquer the disease. General Badeau stated in the evening that Jefferson Davis had not, as intimated, sent any letter to Grant.

Andrew H. Green called to extend sympathy in behalf of ex-Governor Tilden. He didn't see the general.

THE GENERAL'S CONDITION. General Grant has had an undisturbed and refreshing sleep of seven and a half hours. His pulse is 80 and full; temperature normal. He has had no pain during the night and has coughed very little. He is inclined to be cheerful. Ex-Senator Chaffee left the house of General Grant between 10 and 11 o'clock. He said that the general's voice was clear at times and husky at times, according to the amount of mucous, and that he may live for two or three days yet. The family last night and the night before slept more than they have in a good many days. U.S. Grant, Jr., left the house at 11 o'clock. He said that he had takked with his father and the general had talked with him. He was very quiet. The situation this morning was cheering. Jesse Grant and Fred Grant went out for a walk this forenoon.

Colonel Fred Grant said this afternoon that his father is no weaker than he has been for the past two or three days, and that he is suffering no pain at present.

Dr. Newman said that the general was much pleased at the manner in which his message was received by the press and public, and that he was resting easily, but not gaining any strength. Dr. Douglas returned about two o'clock, and Dr. Shrady left an hour later. There had been a rumor abroad to the effect that the patient had grown much weaker, and as Dr. Shrady was leaving, he was asked it such was the fact. He replied, "no," in a manner which indicated that he regarded the question as wholly groundless.

The afternoon has been a very quiet one for General Grant. He has been free from pain and has dozed most of the time in his easy chair. He has taken his nourishment regulations of the control of the chair. He has taken his nourishment regularly and well; pulse 72 with slight fluctuation observable.

It is a singular case.

Senator Chaffee, when he left the house at four o'clock, stated that General Grant had been walking about his room. The doctors had examined his throat during the afternoon and its condition was regarded satisfactory. General Grant's was a singular case, and admits of no human prophecy.

After the general's throat had been examined this afternoon, Dr. Shrady referred in a plessant manner to the general's then con-dition as compared with a week ago. Then General Grant, who had talked freely during General Grant, who had talked freely during the day, said: "My chances of pulling through are one in one hundred. I have no trouble, but sometimes I feel that I shall get better. I think if I have another strangling spell I shall go off very quickly, and if you doctors can'tell how long a man can live under water, when he is drowning, then I think I can form some idea of what time I shall have to live when that past strangling. shall have to live when that next strangling eomes on, if it does come on. If I have not a choking, I think I shall linger some time, for I feel so much better the last two days."

The bulletin at 11 o'clock showed that General Grant continued in a comfortable condition. He is now sleeping quietly, and promises to have a good night. About 9 o'clock Rev. J. P. Newman arrived, and was immediately admitted. When he emerged a short time after, he said that the general was slowly and constantly sinking. That the old solder and constantly sinking. That the old solder sits most of the time in his easy chair with closed eyes. "In regard to his religion," continued Dr. Newman, "Grant is confident of the future. The other day when I asked him about the matter, he said he was confident of the hereafter. He has frequently called the family in, and bade me lead in prayer."

At 6:15 p. m. U. S. Grant, Jr., left the house and said his father was about the same. General Badeau left at 9:39. He said that the general could not get well. The failure of Grant & Ward had wrecked his powers of resistance to disease. Gederal Badeau has given his room in the Grant residence to the doctors.

A DELEGATION OF CRANKS A delegation of thirty-three gentlemen in full regalia, representing the united order of American mechanics, marched to the Grant American mechanics, marched to the Grant-mansion last night from their headquarters at Broom street and the Bowery. Grand Coun-cillor J. B. Lane presented to the messenger boy who opened the door a stries of engrossed resolutions, tendering the condolence of the society to the afflicted general. The delega-gation then marched and countermarched in front of the house with uncovered heads and flags waying flags waving.

NEW YORK, April 7 .- 3:45 A. M .- An unfavorable change has just taken place in General Grant's condition. Dr. Shrady, General Badeau. Ex-Senator Chaffee, and Dr. Newman, have been sent for. Indications are now very bad.

4:15 a. m.-A carriage has been sent after Dr. Sands in haste. This is the first time that Dr. Sands has been sent for, and the supposition is that General Grant is choking to death, and that Dr. Sands has been called to perform pracheot-

TOM THUMB'S WIDOW MARRIED. City.

New York, April 6.—Mrs. General Tom Thumb, known in private life as Mrs. M. Lavinia Stratford, was married to-day at the church of the Holy Trinity, to Count Prim Magni. One thousand two hundred tickets of admission to the marriage were printed and satisfied only a small percentage of the applicants. Those in charge of the affair were besieged for tickets during the past week, but only a limited number were issued to guard against any crash or overcrush in the church. sgainst any crash or overcrush in the church Miss Lucy Adams acted as bridesmaid and Major Newell as groomsman. Both of these are of extremely small stature.

As soon as the present engagement of Major and Mrs. Magni is ended they will re-tire forever from the public gaze. Both have accumulated snug fortunes.

SHERIDAN ON GRANT.

ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 7 1885.

What General Sheridan Said at a Recent Dinner-General Grant's Delusion. Philadelphia Ledger sends to his paper on abstract of General Sheridan's remarks at a recent dinner of the Gridiron club in Washington, at which General Sheridan was a guest. General Sheridan, the correspondent says, spoke of General Grant in connection with his physical suffering with a feeling and tenderness that exhibited genuine affection for his old companion in arms, and related some facts which cannot fail to be of special interest at this time.

"It is sad to think," said General Sheridan,
"of General Grant dying under such physical torfure as is inflicted by his terrible disease, and under such mental anguish as I know he endures in consequence of the unfortunate business failure that overwhelmed him and his family. I could never comprehend why his family. I could never comprehend why the old man (all the old soldiers call General Grant the old man) went into business, and particularly why he set himself up in Wall street. From the time-he imbibed this business notion, I have always thought General Grant was off his base, and had lost that abundance of caution that has characterized all his movements. I have listened to himself about making money in perfect any semant. He imagined that he nave listened to him talk about making money in perfect amszement. He imagined that he had a latent talent for making money, and that his sons also possessed this talent to a remarkable degree. His talent in connection with money was in an opposite direction, and caused him to get clear of money in a very short time. I never knew Grent to talk about the great abilities which he did possess and which the world recognized. No one ever heard him talk about his great military talents or boast. about his great military talents or boast about his splendid achievements in the field. And yet Grant knew he had extraordinary abilities in this direction, because his success-ful movements and the brilliant and decisive results that attended them showed him this. No, the old man should have never gone into camp in Wall street, but should have settled down into private life after he returned from his tour of the world and enjoyed that peace and quiet he so much needed after twelve years of constant application and ardious labor in of constant application and arduous labor in the field and in the executive chamber. You have seen statements," continued General Sheridan, "to the effect that the old mar laid plans to secure the nomination for the presidency in 1868. There is no foundation for such statements, and I know whereof I speak. I know what his feelings and desires were at that time touching his future. He wanted, above all things, to remain with the army, which he loved, and whose idol he was and is still, and had no ambition whatever to become president."

FISH UNDER OATH.

The Ex-President of the Marine Bank Making Disclosures.

New York, April 6.—The examination of James D. Fish, ex-president of the Marine bank, was continued to-day by the United States district attorney. The total amount of checks received by Fish from Grant and Ward from June 1880, to April 1884, being one fourth of the pretended profits, was shown by the check books to be $712,032. In addition to this the books showed $295.000 of tion to this the books showed $295,000 of Grant and Ward's supposed profits to have been turned over to the Marine bank. Fish personally discounted Grant & Ward's notes at 8 per cent, and had them rediscounted by the Manne hank at 6 and 7 per cent. Account the Marine bank and Grant & Ward showed that Grant & Ward were charged for the use of money as much as from 50 to 120 per cent per annum. Fish was asked what was the reason for the Marine bank charging Grant & Ward these large sums for the use of money when Grant & Ward could have borrowed elsewhere at regular, retas have borrowed elsewhere at regular rates. The witness seemed much embarassed, and after a long pause answered that two of the reasons were that Grant & Ward could afford to pay and the bank wanted the sums charged. The bank only charged these large amounts on contract loans. The contracts were the basis of the security on which this money was lent. The witness had every confidence that the contracts were all right. The reason he did not enter on the books as interest the whole amount charged for the use of the money sirable to have it published that such large interests were charged. The reason that no reference to these contracts appeared on the books was because it would not have been practicable. It would not have been satisfactory to the directors.

Death of a Woman from Cancer of the Tongue while Seemingly Recovering.

PRILADELPHA, April 6.—The attention of the whole country having been for the past week turned toward New York, where the hero of Appomattox lies sick unto death, a peclaiar interest at this time attaches to the manner of the death in this city of Mrs. Antonica Capola. Her illners and the manner of her death are similar to that which afflicts and threatens General Grant. The lady in question was 40 year of age and resided at 715 Offristian street. She has been under the care of Dr. Mark L. Nardyz. For three years there has been enlarging a growth of cellular tissus in the threat between the epiglottis and the trachea, which greatly interfered at times with her swellowing. The disease was pronounced epithelioms and was treated with the anodyne hydrococaine. The virulence of the disease was subject to fluctuations similar to these which mark the progress of the disease in General Grant. Although the woman died at 6 o'clock Saturday, on the day before she had been walking about the house and had eaten with zest three eggs. The immediate cause of death was the extensive swelling of the lymphatic glands, which caused compression of the windpipe, and consequent suffocation. Death of a Woman from Cancer of the

THE AFGHAN BONE.

London, April 6 .- Orders have been received by the Indian government from London to setively continue the preparations for war, notwithstanding the pacific assurances of Russie. This action has created a good impreson in India, and sustains the enthusiasm of the British and Afghan troops.

The morning papers generally declare the Russian answer regarding the Afghan frontier dispute to be delusive and unsatisfactory.

A grand review of all the British and native troops in Rowal Pinde, took place to-day in the presence of Abdurrahman, ameer of Afghanistan, the earl of Dufferin, vicercy of India and all native chiefs with their briliantly uniformed staff, The march past the point of review occupied two hours. The troops presented a splendid appearance, and the parade was one of the finest spectacles ever the parade was one of the finest spectacles ever beheld in India. The ameer was pro-foundly impressed by the ceremony with the power and glory of England. The earl of Duffering gives a grand banquet in honor of Abdurrahman to-night. The troops reviewed to-day in Rawai Pinde numbered 20,000. The conference will con-clude on Wednesday and the ameer will leave of the Arabs. LONDON, April 6 .- The Guards and the Aus-

London, April 6.—The Guards and the Australian contingent marched this morning in the direction of Handoub, with orders to build a zareba at that point. The British expect no serious opposition on their line of march until Wednesday, when they will probauly reach a point where a large body of Arabs are reported to be entrenched.

General Graham tolegraphs that the Suakim-Berber railway has been advanced out toward Handoub and under the protection of the British troops. The army will march upon Handout next Wednesday. The convoy which went out to get McNeill's zareba this morning, has returned to Suakim. It brought back from the zaraba the garrison and stores, and destroyed the areba. Hostile Arabs last night kept up the fire on the zereba for stores, and destroyed the areas. Hostife Arabs last night kept up the fire on the zereba for three hours, and wounded one of the garrison. The cavalry has made a reconnoitering expedition in the vicinity of Handou to-day. Bodies of the enemy were seen moving toward Handoub. The heat grows warmer. The sick list is increasing largely. Osman Digma's son was shot in the recent engagement.

Held Captive in a Convent.

VIENNA, April 6.—The Jewish community of this capital is at present agitated over the alleged abduction and conversion of a beautiful Jewish woman, Rachel Stielitz. Two years ago the girl disappeared. The other day her parents received a letter stating that their daughter was in a certain Catholic convent and was about to take the veil. The letter was signed by Rachel herself, who begged to be released from a life which she described as one of captivity.

The Conard Steamers.

London, April 6.—The report of the Cunard steamship company states that during the year which ended last December the depression in trade had so affected the freights that the directors had been unable to declare dividends or to add to the insurance fund. The reports stated that the government will probably purchase the Umbris and the Oregon.

A Riot in Cyprus.

London, April 6.—A dispatch from Lainyes, Island of Cyprus, reports a serious riot growing out of the wanton attack upon a religious procession of the Greek church. While the procession was passing the English club house a party of foungers began to joer and hoot at the priests. Finally they attacked the processionists with stones, and the troops had to be called out before the disturbance was quieted.

TEN MINERS KILLED.

The Disastrous Cave-in of the Rayen Run

Shenandoan, Pa., April 6.—About one o'clock this afternoon, one of the gangways of the Cuyler collicry at Raven Run, operated by S. M. Heaton & Co., caved in without warning, entombing ten miners who were at work inside. The cave-in occurred about 400 feet from the bottom of the slope, and was caused by the sudden crushing of the timbers. There is no means the bottom of the slope, and was caused by the sudden crushing of the timbers. There is no means of ascertaining whether the imprisoned miners are dead or alive. Heaton & Co. are doing everything possible to rescue the men, but the danger of an approaching break makes it difficult to do anything to that end, and also prevents hundreds of men that have gathered at the scene from going to work to rescue the imprisoned miners. Those who are acquainted with the place have little or no hope of the imprisoned men being fescued alive. The scene at the mouth of the slope is heartrending. The unfortunate miners are all men of families, and the appealing cries of their wives and children fill the air.

The cave-in is even more serious than at first reported. The exploring parties who have attempted to enter the mine report it a complete wreck, and all hopes of rescuing the imprisoned miners alive has been abandoned. The slope is seven hundred feet deep, and is divided into four lifts. The tun men now in the mine were in the lower lift, and the place is closed to the bottom of the first lift, four hundred feet above. There were three openings to the mine, an aisle and two slopes, and all three are closed below the first lift. The dangerous condition of the mine not only prevents the reacuing parties from doing any work, but forbids even a thorough examination of the workings. The concussion caused by the fall was so great that the mine erray at the foot of the first lift were forced up the slope a distance of fifty feet. The miners who are acquainted with the workings, declare it not only impossible to rescue the men alive, but doubtful whether even their bodies can be recovered. It is their judgment also that the colliery is a complete wreck. The colliery employed from 150 to 200 men when working, but fortunately was not in operation to-day. Had it been working all the men would undoubtedly have been lost.

Labor Troutles in Illinois.

Labor Troubles in Illinois.

JOLISTY, Ills., April 6.—The striking quarrymen succeeded to day in overcoming a posse of sheriffs deputized to protect the force of men put to work at reduced wages. The officers refused to fire, and were put to route, along with the new men. All of the quarries are therefore again quiet. The men at work were handled more roughly to-day than at any time since the strike hearn. The govern were handled more roughly to-day than at any time since the strike began. The governor has been telegraphed to call out the militia. The sheriff will make another attempt to-morrow to keep off the strikers, who number between 3,000 and 5,000 men. They say they will not go in to main any one, unless they sere fired on, in which case they will not be answerable for the consequences. Serious trouble is anticipated to-morrow morning.

The Strike at an End,

The Strike at an End.

Pittssure, April 6.—The river coal miners strike ended to day in favor of the strikers, and six hundred miners resumed work this morning at an advance in their wages. The action of Walton & Co., the most extensive operators on the Monongahela river, in conceding the increase to their men, Saturday, broke the backbone of the strike and a general stampede of the other operators to resume work followed. Two-thirds of the mines started up to-day and the balance will be working before to-day and the balance will be working before the end of the week. The strike lasted four weeks, and the miners are jubilant over their victory. There is no change in the situation of the railroad miners' strike.

The Bead of Navigation.

From the Columbus, Ga., Sun.

The editor of the Eufaula Mail, writing to his paper from this city, uses the following significant parsecraph: significant paragraph:
Columbus is situated at the head of navigation on the Chattahoochee river, but how long she may remain so is a question, in view of the rapid filling up of the river bed above Eufaula. If the progress of pature continues for the next ten views at the ature continues for the next ten years as it has the past decade, I look to see Eulaula occupy-the same relation to the river that Columbus ow does, viz : the head of navigat The people of Columbus are not blinded to the fact that the Chattahoochee river, in conrested. We have no apprehension that the fate predicted by the Mail will ever become a reality. Nevertheless it is encumbent upon our business men to see that every impediment to on the Chattahoochee is removed. The business on the river has increased each year since the government improvement began, until it now amounts to over $11,000,000. But it will not be overlooked that for the past year or two the low stage of water has seriously retarded river business in the summer, and has at times made navigation impossible.

Practical engineers have stated, and so reported to the government at Washington that with the proper appropriation the river could be made navigable at all seasons of the year, and that one hundred thousand dollars could be properly expended. As the matter now stands there is over forty thousand dollars appropriated and is lying idle in the treasury, the work of improve-ment having been suspended. Why this is the case we do not know, but the citizens and the case we do not know, but the citizens and business men of Columbus ought to know, and if they study their own interest, seek to remove the cause and have the work resumed. Our board of trade might find in this an inter-esting field of labor and one that results would doubtless prove profitable.

The officer and prisoner passed through here yesterday for Americus. Murphy had married in Dale since leaving Americus, and Feagin finding that Murphy had numerous relatives in the neighborhood had to resort to a trick to get up with him. He resisted arrest, and it seems that Mr. Hart Collins, of this and it seems that Mr. Hart Collins, of this city, assisted in hand-cuffing Murphy, and got bit like blazes on the arm by the prisoner while so doing.

A Wise Farmer.

From the Albany, Ga., News. Mr. A. R. Jackson, of this county, brought into the city yesterday for sale 400 pounds of hams of his own raising. This shows him to be a wise farmer—one that remembers that cities and towns were intended, among other things, to furnish farmers a market in which to dispose of their surplus very sign experience. to dispose of their surplus provision crops. A general war in Europe would help such farmers as Mr. Jackson, but it would fill with anguish those who keep their smokehouses in the west.

From the Quitman, Ga., Free Press. The weather has been propitions during the last week or ten days for the truck and melon men, and they are all busily at work. Upon investigation we find that a large crop of melons has been planted, and that a much larger area in vegetables is being cultivated than we thought. Greater care than usual has been exercised in preparing the land and fertilizing for melons, and if the seasons are favorable we predict a large crop of fine melons.

They have several novel appliances, and their appointments are considered the perfection of luxurious traveling.

"West about melons this year?" asked a cost tition man yesterday of Mr. J. A. ams, of the Louisville and Nashville and Nashville and Chattanooga railroads.

"The prospect is," said Mr. Sams, "that we will have a crop fully as large, or larger, than last season. South Carolina is planting very heavily, and Georgia will have, I think, quite as large an acreage as last year, but will have more helous because the crop last year was a failure."

"What about rates for this season?" re is a reduction of rates to all points the Ohio river. The rate to all points beyond the Ohio is eight mills per ton per mile, and to all points on this side the rate, is one cost per ton per mile. This makes a re-duction of twenty per cent to all points north of the river, the rate last year having been a cent per ton per mile. That, you see, is quite a reduction."

"How much in dollars and cents will it be?" "It amounts to about twenty or twenty-five dollars a car from points in southwest Geor-

How is this rate fixed?" "It is fixed by a special melon committee composed of all the freight agents of roads interested in the melon traffic."

Changing a Gange.

It is stated on good authority that in about a year the Louisville and Nashville railroad will change its gauge, and that the Western and Atlantic will follow suit. If this is correct it is very important railroad news. The gauge on the lines named is known as the broad gauge. It is proposed to change it to the standard gauge of four feet eight and a half inches, or three and a half inches narrower than at present. This work of changing a than at present. This work of changing a railroad gauge will be very interesting. It will be done in one day. A force of men will be put along the roads sufficient to make the change in that time. One rail only will be moved, and the rails will not have to disjointed. In that way, aided by special ma-chinery for drawing the spikes, the work will preced very rapidly. The advantages to grow out of the change are said to be numerous. The standard gauge is in use on all the roads north of the Chio river. Freight will come north of the Chio river. Freight will come all the way from the north and west without the change of trucks or transferring of goods. Under the present arrangement trucks are changed at the Ohio river, and the delay thus occasions frequently causes freight blocks. The Louisville and Nashville now has five steam ho sling machines for changing trucks on cars. If the change is made on the State road it will be a very interesting railroad event in this sec-

American Steel Rails Best.

St. Louis, April 6.—The Age of Steel publishes the results of an extensive inquiry into comparative wearing qualities of steel rails of American and English manufacture. For several menths past the technical papers of England have been attacking the quality of steel rails manufactured in America, alleging among other things, that their average life is less than seven years, while English rails are good for twenty years.

The Age of Steel publishes letters from the general managers of over thirty leading American railroads, who show by carefully prepared reports that the statements of the English press are not well founded. It appears that the quality of American rails has not deteriorated, and that on roads where both kinds of rails have been tested, preference is kinds of rails have been tested, preference is given to home made rails.

Shenandoah Valley Receivership.

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—The United States circuit court of Philadelphia has appointed Sidney F. The O. I. C. Co.—Gentlemen: A sense of duty in pels me to write you a brief history of my affliction and its cure by the use of your medicine. Mine was a severe case of white swelling, and so painful was the disease that I could not put my foot to the floor. This was my unfortunate condition for about nine months before I was induced by a friend to give O. I. C. a trial. During the time mentioned I had physicians to treat me and to lance my foot, and was informed by them that I would never be able to walk without limping. I am rejoiced to say that their ore diction has not proved true. I am completely restored to health; can walk as well as I ever did before the attack; in fact, I plow and attend to all of my business and am a sound and well man. O. I. C. INDICATIONS for the South Atlantic states taken at 1 a. m.: Fair weather, followed by partly cloudy weather and local showers; winds generally southerly, preceded by easterly winds near Cape Hatteras; lower barometer; slight changes in temperature.

It is at last settled that M. Brisson is the man who is to succeed M. Ferry as premier of France. For awhile he will bask in sunshine, until some little incident happens, when the rabble will hurl him from power as it did his predecessor.

THE president took decided action yesterday in the case of a New York postmaster who had proven recreant to his trust. The senate hadfailed to act upon the matter. When the resca's find that the president is fully equal to the emergency, they will be driveninto honest work or resignation.

THE viceroy of India made a great display of English power before the ameer of Afghanistan yesterday, with the purpose of intensifying his hostility toward Russia. The ameer, while stushed with wine at the banquet in his honor, waved his turban and shouted for the queen.

A GOOD SUGGESTION. Mrs. Hayes's husband recently succeeded in collecting from the government a so-called claim of $3,950.73. There was no justice in the claim to begin with, and those who authorized its payment were merely parties with Hayes to a swindle. The so called claim was to reimburse Hayes for the "expenses" of the visiting thieves and statesmen that he sent to Louisiana in 1876 for the purpose of stealing the vote of the state. These men were sent on his own responsibility. Reviewing these facts the New York Sun suggests that Hayes be sued for money which be fraudulently paid out on the Weil claim. In 1878 Hayes was directed by congress to investigate the Weil case and to agree with the Mexican government for a new trial of the case, if that seemed best. Meanwhile the state department reported to congress .that the honor of the nation required that the Weil claim should be further investigated, in order to satisfy grave doubts as to its integrity. The Weil claimants made a tremendous e fort to get hold of some of the money held by our government pending the investigation. Evarts, secretary of state, refused to pay out any of the money, but some of his elients. At this inncture General Thomas Young, of Ohio, a member of congress, made his appearance as one of the counsel of the Weil claimants. Young went to Hayes and got an order directing Little Breeches Hay "to proceed with the distribution of the award money on hand." By this Haves made him self personally responsible for the payment of a large sum of money which the state department was withholding because of grave doubts as to the justice of the claim, and the Sun suggests that the government sue him foe the recovery of the money.

The suggestion is a good one. Let Hayes's hennery be promptly levied on by the United States constables.

CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICAN WARS. The belligerent movements south of Mexico should not be confounded. North of the isthmus of Panama General Barrios-who may not be so very dead-is trying to com bine the five petty republics of Central America into one that will have strength to resist aggression and resources to push for ward works of improvement. The following table shows the area and population of the five states:

	area.	Popu- lation.
Costa Rica	26.040	180,000
Guatemala		1,278.311
Honduras.	39.600	458,000
Nicaragua	49,500	400,000
San Salvador	7,225	554,784
Total	164,195	2,871,095
The territory is almost en	ractly a	s large as the whole of New England, with New York, Maryland and Pennsylvania added. The population is on an average 173/2 persons to the square mile, although San Salvador averages 77, and Guatemala 30. General Barrios is president of Guatemala and as he has Honduras has an ally, he has a population of 1,736,311 to draw upon, while his opponents must get their recruits from 1,134,784 people. If Mexico keeps out of the movement, there is very little doubt that General Barrice-if alive-will succeed in forming a very considerable Central Americar state. If Mexico sends an army of invasion into Gualemala, she may not care to withdraw, and the meral power of the United States may be needed to prevent an absorption on the other side of the house.

On the isthmus of Panama and south of it the United States of Colombia there is, or was, a revolt against the general government of that country. The revolution is almost wholly confined to the state of Panama, and the nature of the trouble has no connection with the Central American movement, and is really without interest to this country except so far as it affects American interests on the isthmus. The revolutionists in the state of P. nama burned Aspinwall and did a numher of other bigh handed acts, and Secretar, Whitney premptly took steps to defend merican interests on the isthmus of Paus-

The expedition will not probably have a to do when it reaches Aspinwall, but sending of it has had a good effect, and place the United States on the ground of other powers if further complicational arise. The uprising has probability course, and payment of American probability of the course of the c

MAKING PUBLIC ROADS

The convict question in some of the states s assuming considerable importance, and the question "what shall we do with them?" appears to be pressing for solution. The sentimentalists for the most part think that the laws which the criminals break should be tempered with the taffy of reform. They seem to believe that the laws are not made to punish criminals, but to give them an opcortunity to cultivate the arts and acquire ents of thorough gentility. Apart from the sentimental nonsense that forms the tasis of much of this so-called prison reform, the convict question in the south is a very important one, and is becoming more and more important every day. Some of our Tennessee exchanges are discursing the problem of convict employment, and one of them suggests that the criminals cannot be better employed than in the permanent improvement of the public highways of the state. Whether the suggestion sibe best that can be made will admit of discussion, but there can be no doubt that the uestion of the permanent improvement of be public roads of the state is as important to the people as any that could be brought forward. The convict business may be disposed of in various ways more or less reasonable and satisfactory, but the improvement of our public bighways is a matter that presses more and more upon the attention of the people the more nearly they are brought in contact with the rushing energy of the age and time.

As we have said in these columns before good public roads are great civilizers. In Georgia we have a comparatively extensive railroad system that is continually growing more extensive, and good public roads will add enormously to the advantages of this system. If the people of the state (who may be supposed to be using all their opportunities to better the condition of their children) have any regard for posterity, they will at once set about leaving it the priceless legacy of good roads. This work, we are glad to say, has been be gun in Fulton county, and it will be continued until every important road in the county is macadamized. Having enjoyed the advantages of good roads, the people will demand the completion of the work, and it is to be hoped that the example set by Falton will be followed by the adjoining counties until every county in the state shall have good

Perhaps the first and best thing to do is to repeal that provision of the road law which allows a citizen to work out his road tax. Let the taxes be paid in the shape of money, and let the money be placed in the hands of public spirit I road commissioners. There is not a cou 'y in the state but 'is rich enough to p y for the making of a mile of good roads very year, and this in the course of ten or twenty years would revoonize the condition of the whole state. Every acre of land within reasonable reach of the improved roads would be permanently enhanced in value, and the value of all other kinds of property would be proportionately increased, to say nothing of the great gain that would flow from the association of neighbors who are now, during the winter season, separated by perhaps the worst roads to be found in the world.

The present system of working the roads in the various counties is a farce. It is a system that, at its very best, merely fills up old mud holes to make room for quagmires, or puts fresh clay where there is already too much mud. There is not only no improvement, but a gradual deterioration of the public highways under this system, and it is time to institute a reform. Let the grand juries take this important question in hand. THE DESCRIPTION SUCCESSION

The presidential succession again depends pon one life. If the president or vice-pres ident should drop out by death or disqualification, there would be no lawful successor, because there is no sneaker of the house. and Vice-President Hendricks did not vacate the chair so that a president pro tem could be chosen. The situaton is not unlike that which followed the death of Garfield. Before his death Vice President Arthur refused to vacate the chair and permit the then democratic majority of the senate to elect a pres ident pro tem. The senate afterward became republican, and Mr. Arthur and President Pro Tem Edmunds, constituted the line of succession, as the president and vice-president new do. It is not altogether improbaable that Mr. Hendricks held the chair, as Mr. Arthur had before him, to prevent the placing of a political opponent in the line of succession. The entire situation is not a wise one There should be no time, not even a day, when the lawful succession to the chief office of a great country depends upon one life. There ought to be no trouble in changing the law so that no such contingency could occur. Such a change should be wholly non-partisan and satisfactory to all parties. Fifty millions of peop'e, engaged in the various pursuits of life, should have full assurance that legal chaos is an impossibility. Some think there should be a long line of succession, and all agree in demanding a charge that will at all times keep more than one individual on the waiting list,

In North Carolina they are talking about re pealing the tax on drummers. It is said that it does not pay to impose such a tax. Florida fixes the tax at $25; Louisiana, $25; Nebraska, $50; Del-aware, $25; Texas, $55; North Carolina, $100. The tax brings North Carolina an income of about $63,000 a year. It keeps out about 200 traveling men who would spend, say five dollars a day for two days, or about $200,000 a year among the people. So the state loses $137,000 a year on account of this

DEATH AND THE SOLDIER.

Eugene Field the Chicago News. A soldier who had won imperishable fame on the battlefields of his country was confronted by gaunt stranger, clad all in black and wearing an mpenetrable mask.

"Who are you that you are to block my way?" demanded the soldier. Then the stranger drew aside his mask and the oldier knew that he was Death. "Have you come for me?" asked the soldier. "If o. I will not go with you; so, go your way alone. But Death held out his bony hand and beckoned to the soldier.

"No," cried the soldier, resolutely; "my time s not come. See, here are the histories I am riting-no hand but mine can finish them-I will not go till they are done!" "I have riden by your side day and night," said Death: "I have hovered about you on a hundred attlefields, but no sight of me could chill your heart till now, and now I hold you in my power

And with these words Death seized upon the oldier and strove to bear him hence, but the soldier struggled so desperately that he prevaile gainst Death, and the strange phantom departed alone. Then when he had gone the soldier found pon his throat the imprint of Death's fingers—so fierce had been the struggle. And nothing could wear away the marks-nay, not all the skill in the world could wash them away, for they were disease, lingering, agonizing, fatal disease. But with quiet valor the soldier returned to his histories, and for many days thereafter he toiled up-

'How pale and thin the soldier is getting," said the people. "His hair is whitening and his eyes are weary. He should not have undertaken the

on them as the last and best work of his noble history-the labor is killing him." They did not know of his struggle with Death or had they seen the marks upon the sold er's throat. But the physicians who came to him, and saw the marks of Death's cruel fingers, shook their eads and said the soldier could not live to complete the work upon which his whole heart was set. And the soldier knew it, too, and many s time he paused in his writing and laid his pen aside and bowed his head upon his hands and strove for consolation in the thought of the great fame he had already won. But there was no consolation in all this. So when Death came a second time he found the soldier weak and trembling and emaciated. "It would be vain of you to struggle with me now," said Death. "My poison is in you veins, and, see, my dew is on your brow. But you are a brave man, and I will not bear you with me til ou have asked one favor, which I will grant. "Give me an hour to ask the tayor." said the oldier. "There are so many things-my histories and all-give me an hour that I may decide what I shall ask," And as Death tarried, the soldier communed with himself. Before he closed his eyes forever what boon should he ask of Death? And the soldier's thoughts sped back over the years, and his whole life came to him like a lightning flashthe companionship and smiles of kings, the glo ries of government and political power, the honor of peace, the joys of conquest, the sweets of a quiet Lome life upon a western prairie, the gentle devo tion of a wife, the clamor of noisy boys and the face of a little girl—ah, there his thoughts lingered and clung. Time to complete our work-our books-our sistories," counseled Ambition. "Ask Death for time to do this last and crowning act of our great

But the soldier's ears were deaf to the cries of Ambition; they heard another voice-the voice of the soldier's heart-and the voice whispered "Nellie-Nellie-Nellie." That was all-no other words but those, and the soldier struggled to his feet and stretched forth, his hands and called to Death; and, hearing him calling, Death came and stood before him.

"I have made my choice," said the soldier. "The books?" asked Death, with a scornful

"No, not them," said the soldier, "but my little girl-my Nellic! Give me a lease of life till I have held her in these arms, and then come for me and I will go!

Then Death's hideous aspect was changed: his stern features relaxed and a look of pity came upon them. And Death said, "It shall be so." and saying this he went his way.

Now the soldier's child was far away-many many leagues from where the soldier lived, beyond a broad tempestuous ocean. She was not, as you might suppose, a little child, although the soldier spoke of her as such. She was a wife and a mothier's heart the same little girl the soldier had held upon his knee many and many a time while his rough hands weaved prairie flowers in her soft, fair curls. And the soldier called her Nellie now, just as he did then, when she sat on his knee and prattled of her dolls. This is the way of the

An old comrade came and pressed his hand, and old of the times when they went to the wars together, and the old comrade told of this battle an 1 of that, and how such a victory was won and such a city taken. But the soldier's ears heard no sound of battle now, and his eyes could see no flash of saber nor no smoke of war.

So the people came and spoke words of veneration and love and hope, and so with quietitude, but with a hungry heart the soldier waited for Nellie, bis little girl.

She came across the broad, tempestuous ocean. The gulls flew far out from land and told the winds and the winds flew further still and said to the ship: "Speed on, O ship! speed on in thy swift, straight course, for you are bearing a treasure to a father's heart!" It having been noised about that the soldier was dying and that Nellie had been sent for across the sea, all the people vied with each other in cothing the last moments of the famous man, for he was beloved by all and all were bound to him by bonds of patriotic gratitude, since he had been so brave a soldier upon the battlefields o his country. But the soldier did not heed their words of sympathy; the voice of fame, which, in the past, had stirred a fever in his blood and fallen most pleasantly upon his ears, awakened no emo-most pleasantly upon his ears, awakened no emotion in his bosom now. The soldier thought only of Nellie, and he awaited her coming.

Then the ship leapt forward in her pathway, and the waves were very still, and the winds kept whispering. "Speed on, O ship," till at last the ship was come to port and the little girl was clasped in the soldier's arms.

Then for a season the soldier seemed quite himself again, and the people said, "He will live," and they prayed that he might. But their hopes and prayers were vain. Death's seal was on the toldier, and there was no release.

The last days of the soldier's life were the most beautiful of ail—but what a mockery of ambition and fame and all the grand, pretentious things of life they were! They were the triumph of a human heart, and what is better or pure or sweeter than that?

No thought of the hundred battlefields upon which his valor had shown conspicuous came to the soldier now—nor the echo of his eternal fame, nor even jet the murmurs of a sorrowing people. Nellie was by his side, and his hungry fainting heart fed on her dear love and his soul went tack with her to the years long ago.

Away beyond the western horizon upon the prairie stands a little home over which the viaes trail. All about it is the tall, waving grass, and over yonder is the swale with a legion of chattering blackbirds perched on it is swaying reeds and rushes. Bright wild flowers bloom on every side, the quali whistles on the pasture fence, and from his home in the chimney corner the cricket tries to chirrup and echo to the lonely bird's call. In this little prairie home we see a man holding om his knee a little girl, who is telling him of her play as he smooths her fair curis or strokes her tiny welvet hands; or perhaps shais singing him one of her baby songs, or asting him strange questions of the great wide world that is to new to her; or perhaps he binds the wild flowers has brought into a little noseay for her new gingham dress, or—but we see it all, and so too, does the solder, and so does Nellie, and they hear the blackbird's twitter and the quali's shrift call and the cricket's faint echo, and all about them is the accept. no more comfortable place of residence, for the purpose, could be desired.

Beck of the residence portion of the building are the cells and hospital. All this part is absolutely fire proof. Entering on the right side in rear of the kitchen, the visitor finds himself in the office of the jailer. This room has a floor of cement, and is from plated. It commands a full view of all the cells, and is reached by doors from all parts of the building. There are tenells, made of steer and from, each arranged for four prisuners. Outside of the cells, are two steel and iron corridors, each capable of holding twenty prisoners. In the second story, are cells for lunatics and juvenile offenders, making a total of one hundred persons that may be confined at one time. The cells and lunatic wards, and the hospital, which is in the second story, are all provided ich is in the second story, are all provi pital, which is in the second story, are all provided with bath rooms and water closets. The buaks for prisoners are swung from the walls, taus securing proper ventilation and cleanliness. All the cells may be unlocked at once from the outside. This lock is said to be the most perfect pet invented. It is Paudy's patent. The ventilation of the jail is perfect Large windows pierce the solid walls on all sides, and above, from ventilators are placed. The gas and water supply is ample, and the entire building will be heated by steam Prisoners will have no means of breaking out, but they will be compensated by being made comfortable.

The handsome and long needed structure will be enclosed in the rear and on two sides by a brick wal. In front an iron fence will be erected. It is probable that the transfer of prisoners from the old to the new jail will be made to-morrow.

A Correction. MACON, Ga., April 6 .- | Special |- In justice to fr. Leo Swatts, it is proper to say that he was in New Orleans at the time W. E. Jackson claimed to have been robbed in a faro bank in this city, and knew nothing whatever of the occurrence. W. E. Jackson said he lost the money fairly, and that he does not desire to prosecute the parties who have been arrested. His son, H. C. Jackson, will heaven the said the age of the control of the will, however, prosecute; and the case is set for trial on the 25th instant.

bright sun caused the churches to be crowded with devout worshipers, nevertheless. The services at the Episcopal and Catholic churches were unusually interesting.

At Christ Episcopal church, the fibral decorations were very handsome, and elicited many exchamations of delight from those who say them. Rey. J. E. Winchester, the rector, preached from the text: "Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept." The sermon was earnestly and eloquently delivered, and was full of hope and good cheer to saint cand sinner. The music of the choir was exquisite, and his Eurdeman, the soprano, has lost not a whit of the Ceth and force and beauty of her voice of the Ceth and force and beauty of her voice

All on earth that nine out of ten actresses of to-day would have on would adm the original fashion-plates of Eden. Fact! This practice of "stripping to the skin," as it's called in stage parlance, was indulged in to such an extent by one of the Madison Square stars, that word was sent round by the management that she must wear a corset. The lady had a lissom, traceful figure. She was unmarried, and she actually had the check to go on one night in a satisfusined skirt and a white slik jersey, guiltless of even perspiration underneath. The effect on the audience was—well electrical.

A lady who recently made quite a stir in your city by her beauty and winning manners, sood on a stage of a St. Louis theater, turned her back to the audience and remarked, sotto voce, to a box full of lady friends. "I've got nothing under tall dress, giris, but my complexion."

The audience wondered at the sudden bitarily in the box, and why Miss Blank turned snowled with a broad grin on her face and struggled to regain her composure. Starched skirts and corst covers are all right to "break up" or hide a bad figure, but a good one needs as little in the way of perticoats as possible.

Something made the horses start and upsthat lantern. The fire communicated itself the straw in the bedticks, and a blaze ros. This frightened the horses still more, and the fame. The country folks, aroused from their sleep by the racket, thought it was the devil let loose. None of the men dared to run out and try to stop it and none of the women would have allowed them to do so in any event.

About two miles from the mill the ros tweeps around a low meadow with a sharp curve. Just as the apparitition, that seemed to be a fugitive house afire, entered upon this horseshoe, a man and a boy came up the roa and met it. On the impulse of the momen they stood saide and let it pass, but the clos inspection which they gave it satisfied ther that it was only a burning sleigh instead of Visitor from the infernal regions. The horses are out of breath, I guess, now; they seem to be slowing up." And he jumped the fence and ran across to the other side of the curve, followed closely by the boy. The fire was nearly over when they intecrepted the remains of the sleigh and the horses readily obeyed a few soothing calls of "Whoa." At a late hour the little that remained of the contents was restored to the owner. The occurrence was explained to the neighborhood tent day, but not a few of the inhabitants refused to swallow any such story. It was the evil one himself, and they knew it.—Ex.

"Oh, I know 'twas the devil! I saw his barbed tail and his horns and his pitchfork. He came riding by here in a chariot of pitch, and he had a soul in his grasp, and I am not sure it wasn't that bad girl, Susan Smith, who ran away last summer." The speaker was old Mrs. Thompson, who had lived for seventy years on the road east of Sunbury. The phenomenon that called forth her remark originated as follows:

The Columbus Nine.

I he we has the strongest baseball team in the south. Nearly every man is a hard hitter and plays well wherever you put him. Andrews, the new first baseman, is a daisy. He covers as much grounds any player in the south and watches every point in a game.

He is a hard hitter and excellent base runner. Collins makes a remark-ted as follows: About three miles east of Sunbury is an old stone mill known as Zerfing's, though Zerfing long ago cease to be the owner. The mill has been rented for some years by Ed Drumheller, the present proprietor, and business having en had during the past winter the tenant kently concluded that it was cheaper to when then to pay rent. So be hired a team and a sleigh and prepared to abscond by night. He had packed up his effects in the daytime, so that all the remained to be done was to load the sleigh. There wasn't any moon, so a hand lantern was made useful in this process. All his household goods were in the sleigh by midnight, and with a sigh of relief the old miller set the laninside too. Just then he remembered thing that he did not wish to leave behind him, but knowing very well just where he had put it he returned to the house without bething made the horses start and upset that lantern. The fire communicated itself to the straw in the bedticks, and a blaze rose. This frightened the horses still more, and they started down the road at a furious pace. The faster they went the more the wind fanned the fisme. The country folks, aroused from their sleep by the racket, thought it was the devil let loose. None of the men dared to run out and try to stop it and none of the women would have allowed them to do so in any

About two miles from the mill the road curve. Just as the apparitition, that seemed to be a fugitive house afire, entered upon this horseshee, a man and a boy came up the road and met it. "Them that it was only a burning sleigh instead of a visitor from the infernal regions. "Them sparks will set fire to the old wooden houses down the read," said the boy.

"We'd better try and stop the thing," replied the man. "We can cut across the meadow and catch up with it. The horses are out of breath, I week, now; they seem to be slowing up." And he jumped the fence and ran across to the other side of the curve, followed closely by the boy. Thefire was nearly over when they intecrepted The fire was nearly over when they intecrepted the remains of the sleigh and the horses radily obeyed a few soothing calls of "Whoa." It a late hour the little that remained of the contints was restored to the owner. MONTGOMERY BADLY BEATEN, The Alabama Club Goose-egged—The Game

To-day.

The Atlanta club had little difficulty in shutting out the Montgomerys yesterday. This was the first game that the visitors had played to-gether, and, as was to be expected, they were slightly off in their work, both with the stick and in the field. The feature of the game was the heavy batting of the home team, Goldsby leading with five clean hits, spilling one ball over the right field feace for a home run. Cahill followed close in Goldsby's footsteps with four hits, one a three-bagger. Dundon also got a long drive over the left fielder's head for a home run. McVey's record behind the bat was an excellent one, he having eleven put-outs, five assists and no errors. In fact, the fielding of the whole Atlanta nine was excellent, they having only three errors charged against them.

The same teams play again to-day at 3 p. m., and it is expected that they will show up in much better form than in yesterday's game. Following is the score:

MONTGOMERY. ATLANTA. Hoyt, p.....0 Burkart, 1b..0 Stickney, 3b.0 Drake, lf....0 St'kn'y, D, ss.0 Matick, 2b...0 Cline, rf....0 Total...... 0 3 27 16 11 Total......17 17 27 22 3

NINETEEN TO SIX.

The Columbus Team Throws the Clippers Out of Joint,

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-The third game between the Cincinnati Clippers and the plumbus was played this evening, and resulted in a disastrous defeat for the former. The score was 19 for Columbus and 6 for the Clippers. Landes and Kappel were the battery for Columbus, and did admirable work. The Clippers got only eight base hits, and three of those were by Strauss, Green and Lang were put up as the battery for the visitors, but Columbus knocked Green's eye out in the first two innings, getting ten base hits off him, and scoring six runs in the first and two in the second inning. The Clippers succeeded in scoring one in second on the errors of Columbus, but were goose egged on the next three innings. Shreve was put in box by the Clippers on the third inning, but Columbus hit im pretty freely, and added five to their score in this inning. Shreve, however, pitched better in the following innings and held Columbus down to six m ore runs for the balance of the game. Andrews was the only player who hit him for a home run In the sixth inning Myers hat for the two bases and reached homeon Ukutter's three-bagge In the ninth inning two errors by Columbus and three baggers by Green and Shreve gave the Clip per- four runs. The Columbus boys had out their hitting bats, and got seventeen clear hits off the Clippers, only seven of which, however, were off Slieve. The game to-day was not as fine an exhibition of ball playing as the first game. The Clippers seemed to have been demoralized in the first inning. Columbus played jam up, and the genral verdict is that the Clippers are no match for the home team. Clark was umpire, and gave perfect satisfaction. Wick Miller played short stop, and won the usual share of prizes. The following is the score by inpings:

Columbus ... The Clippers left for home to night.

The Columbus Nine.

He is a hard hitter and excellent bese runner. Coilins makes aremarkable second baseman, sustaining well the reputation he wou on the first. Everybody knows how a ball zoes when Collins hits it. Lyous, the new third baseman, has already established himself as a favorite. He covers the third jam up, and he is hard to beat at the bat and in running bases. Hamburgh is now?playing in the left field and retains his place as one of the best all-round players in the south. Hamburgh is generally pretty sure for a safe hit when he takes the willow. Doo ly and O'Neil, the College battery, pitched their first game on Friday and Columbus was delighted with their wo k. Dooley is destined to rank among the finest pitchers if the profession, and a hetter game was never caught on our grounds taan that by O'Neil. Fechiney and Fitzgerald worked together for the first time Saturday and there is no question about what position they will take as a battery. Everybody knows that Fitzgerald catches the hardest balls without a quiver and puts them down to second square on time. Fechiney is the swiftest pitcher in the team, and the Clippers got only two base hits off him on Saturday. Landis an Kappel make a daisy battery. Landis as a cucumber, and never loses his head because a player behind the bat as anyone need want to see. All six of the last named players are not only good in their specialties, but are solendid all-round players and heavy hitters. Clark and strause, our new battery, were taken from the Clippers, and are crack players. Strauss will cover short-stop when not playing behind the bat. He is also one of the surest hitters in the team. Clark is said to be a remarkable pitcher when in good trim and practice. Shreve, as you know, will not play with Columbus any more, and Miller has been glaven a furlough of six weeks to recuperate his health. Hager has been made manager of the team, His health would not permit of his playing in botty contested games. Columbus now believes that she has the club that will win and that Atlanta

Chattanooga Defeats Nashville. CHATTANOOGA, April 6.-[Special.]-The game of baseball between the Chattanooga and Nashville clubs in this city this evening was one o the most exciting ever played here, and resulted in a victory for the home team by a score of six to five. The visitors have been playing for some time, while it was the first game of the Chatta noogas. Ramsey, the new pitcher of the Chattanoogas, is a phenomenal pitcher, the visitors only getting three balls off him. The errors of the Chattanooga team gave the Nashvilles score. Voss pitched for the visitors, but his ball were unmercifully pounded by the Custanoogas, and only the good field work of the Nashville club saved them. The team play again to morrow.

The Birmingham Nine, BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 6.-[Special.]-The Birminghams and the Clippers, of Cleveland, Ohio, played an interesting game to-day, the score standing Birminghams seven, Clippers three. McCue, the Birmingham pitcher, fractured his leg in New Orleans yesterday and could not play to-day. The Birmingham team will make it ho for some of the southern league pines.

THE BODY CONVENES IN REGULAR

Mr. Cooper Creates a Sensation by Introducing Resolution Prohibiting the Use of Convicts in Contracts Awarded by the City-Che Crew Birest School cous to be Built The general council convened in regular session yesterday afternoon. Mayor Hillyer presided, and the full delegation except Mr. Stockdell, of the aldermanic board was pres-

Only two interesting topics were considered during the session. The balance of the business was tame and in fact dry.

Mr. Beatie, of the committee on public schools, stated that the contract for rebuilding the Crew street schoolhouse had been awarded. Mr. Beatie is also a member of the board of education, and in informing the body that the contract had been let, he stated that $5,400 was the price. He said that the contract had been awarded to Mr. Stewart, and that the building was to be a frame. HE WANTED BRICK.

Mr. Garrett stated that he did not think it wise to have a frame building erected. He believed that it should be in accordance with the advancement of the city.

Mr. Beatie said that the board of education had discussed the brick building, but that the short appropriation would not allow them to award the work in brick. He assisted that Walker street and Fair street schools were crowded beyond limit, and that the board of education could not wait until next year in order to make the building brick. He declared that another schoel building was needed on Ira street, and that the city could not spare the additional $4,000 to make the building

Several members of the body wanted brick. Mr. Garrett introduced a resolution directing the board of education to rescind the contract with Mr. Stewart, if possible, and to authorize the construction of the building of brick at a cost not to exceed $12,000. The motion prevailed.

CONVICT LABOR TALK. The sensational feature of the session, if it had one, was an ordinance introduced by Mr. Cooper. The ordinance directed the street commission in awarding contracts for city work to stipulate in the contract that no con-vict labor should be used, and that no material the fruit of convict labor should be used in the contracts.

The resolution was introduced late in the The resolution was introduced late in the session, and the reading awoke the members, who had begun to grow sleepy.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Slovemen a in Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution, CHICAGO, April 6—The day on 'change wa characterized by unusual activity. In the absence of news from the English grain and money markets, due to Easter holiday in England, the markets were subjected entirely to home influnces in consequence, and the sharp advance scored in wheat, accompanied by very heavy trading, was one of the surprises to which trade is liable to be subjected. The wheat market was at one time 2c above the the lowest figures of the day and be above the closing figures of Saturday, but fell off somewhat and closed for the day at medium figures, and above Saturday. The St. Louis marset led the advance on bad reports from the southwestern winter wheat districts, and an active purasing demand for wheat in store. Numerous bad reports continue to be received here of crop damage, and there were more outside buying

Corn followed closely in the wake of wheat, and under the influence of a good shipping demand and strength developed in wheat, advanced 43% and closed at about outside figures.

Outsranged %6%c higher and closed at medium Provisions were stronger throughout the entire ession, both pork and lard closing higher than Saturday. The hoard will hold no session, adjourning of account of municipal election.

Special to S. H. Phelan. CHICAGO, April 6.-Wheat ruled active and strong, and closes with the advance well sustained. The foreign news, though not threatening imme diate trouble, still it was not sufficiently settled to allay apprehensions. Added to this, the crop inelligence was unfavorable, and resulted in considerable outside buying. St. Louis covered a large line to day. The outlook may be bullish if the crop reports continue coming so unfavorably; but our large visible supply is a heavy bar to any marked advance. Con firm in sympathy with wheat. Provisions firmer, with some heavy shorts cov ering. Pork will do to buy for the turn.

Estimates for to morrow: 10,000 hogs, 120 cars wheat, 625 cars corn, 100 cars oats. On the curb May wheat brought 81% for sellers. CHARLES C. COUNSELMAN & CO.

Special to S. H. Phelan. CHICAGO, April 6.-Wheat advanced on strong buying from St. Louis. The reports are that the country, were free buyers there on crop damage reports, which stimulated that market and brought rders here. Aside from this there is no news of importance, and a quiet day was generally expected, closing at 81%c., a decline of %c. from the highest point. April is often a bull month, and the opinion is gaining ground that we shall not raise a full crop. Corn steady and strong, at 42% for May, with the isual good demand by sample.

Onts firm, with small receipts and a large short terest, which is likely to put them higher.

Provisions steady with a stronger tendency. morrow there will be no session on account McDermid & Co. of the city election.

A RECEIVER WANTED. Small Batch of Debts Creates a Big Lot of Trouble for Company.

A bill has been filed before Judge Hammond to have the affairs of the Georgia Machinery company put in the hands of a receiver. The company is doing business on Marietta street, opposite the Southern agricultural works. It opposite the Southern agricultural works. It manufactures wood-working machinery, and has quite an extensive factory, representing an investment of from twenty to twenty-five thousand dollars in the plant. The real estate is very valuable. The company has notes and accounts to the amount of fourteen thousand dollars of which is considered good. Thus it will be seen the good assets amount to about thirty thousand dollars, For some time the company has found it very difficult to collect accounts, and owing nineteen thousand dolcars. company has found it very difficult to collect accounts, and owing nineteen thousand dollars became very seriously embarrassed. Nine thousand one hundred dollars is secured by a mortgage on the property of the company. The balance is owed on notes and open accounts, and most of it is now due and cannot be met. A few days ago a circular was sent cut to the creditors stating the condition of abairs and proposing a settlement on the following basis: That the company issue mortage bonds of $50 each to the amount of $10,000, bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum, maturing in three years. This mortgage to be second to one for $7,000, the party holding the $2,100 mortgage agreeing to put himself on the same footing as the $10,000. These mortgage bonds to be issued only on condition that all the general creditors of the company agree to take them in payment of their debts. that all the general creditors of the company agree to take them in payment of their debts. Most of the creditors agreed to a settlement on the basis named, but others refused to come in and although their claims reach only about $7.50 three of them have asked for a receiver. The creditors' bill is filed by Perkins & Co., the H. B. Smith manufacturing company, and the Alice furnace company, the latter of Birmingham. The matter came up before Judge Hammond, who declined to appoint a receiver but granted an order restraining the company from disposing of any of its assets or creating thy liens except in the regular course of busines. The company is required to appear on the 11th and show cause why # receiver should not be appointed. Mossrs. J. R. Gray and Hoke & Burton Smith represent the creditors' bill and Captain W. T. Newman represents the company. Mr. Sid Phelan, who is a stockholder in the company, has lately been elected president. The creditors' bill does not allege any fraudulent transaction but simply claims that the company is inselvent, which the company denies.

IS BENNINGER GUILTY? The Decatur Street Rape Case in Court— What Miss Jackson Said.

Yesterday when the superior court met the noted Decatur street rape case was taken up. This was the cate in which Miss Mary E. Jackson charged Augustus Benninger with This was the care in which Miss Mary E. Jackson charged Augustus Benninger with outraging her in the house of Mrs. Cates, on Decatur street, on the night of the 18th of January last. The story of the alleged crime was fully told at the time, and created a sonsation. Mrs. Cates and her little boy and Miss Jackson were in the house. Mr. Cates was away from home and Miss Jackson was spending the night with Mrs. Cates for company, the two being near neighbors. About eleven o'clock Benninger, who had been a boarder at the house, appeared and entered the house, as the ladies claim, pretending that he had an importent message from Mr. Cates. Of the subsequent proceedings Miss Jackson, a very attractive young lady, said that Benninger had a drawn pistol which he flourished, that Mrs. Cates endeavored to persuade had a drawn pistol which he flourished, that Mrs. Cates endeavored to persuade him to go into the room he had formerly occupied and to go to sleap which he refused to do. The ladies were sleeping together and that Benninger insisted on seeking his repose on the same bed and that at the point of the pistol he outraged Miss Jackson Mrs. Cates went out of the house and Benninger followed, whereupon Miss Jackson says she sprang out of bed and ran to her father and told him what had occurred. Mrs. Cates' story was about the same in substance as that of Miss Jackson. Benninger introduced no testimony but simply stated that as that of Miss Jackson. Benninger introduced no testimony but simply stated that what he had done was with the consent of the young lady. Colonel Spencer made a strong appeal for Benninger, and Solicitor General Charles D. Hill made an able and eloquent speech for the prosecution. Judge Hammond's charge was considered by many exceedingly liberal for the prisoner. The jury did not make a verdict before court adjourned. Later a verdict was made and was sealed and will be opened when court meets to day. There is ger Drops in the Grant Rouse and Takes the Town-He Huys Out a Grocery Store, It Fails to Come to Time-He Then Dissp-tears-Detectives on the Hunt.

C. C. Thorn, the grocer at 118 Whitehall street, is mad.

And Mr. Thorn has a right to be mad, for he has been made the victim of the sharpest confidence game ever played in Atlanta. The man who victimized Mr. Thorn was a stranger in Atlanta. He came to the city a total stranger on the 31st of March, but in less than a week succeeded in downing a half dozen of the shrewdest business men on Whitehall street.

During the stranger's short sojourn in Atlanta he made the Grant house his home. On last Tuesday, one week ago to-day, he entered the Grant house office, and throwing a light valise on the counter, picked up a pen and wrote upon the register in a neat business hand.

H. L. WILKINS, ERIE, PENN.

He then asked to be given the best room in the house, saying that he had come to Atlanta to stay, and that he would make the hotel his home if he was treated right.

This was the stranger's introduction to the gate city. That evening when he entered the parlor his attire was faultless and his manners so pleasant that he established himself of parlor his attire was faultless and his manners so pleasant that he established himself a favorite. The next day Wilkins walked out and when he returned to the hotel for dinner he announced that he had met an old friend Mr. I. S. Mitchell, and that he believed he would buy an interest in Mr. Mitchell's business. On Thursday, the second day after Wilkins reached the city, he entered C. C. Thorn's grocery store, at 118 Whitehall street, and introduced himself. He asked Mr. Thorn how he would like to sell out. Mr. Thorn is a young industrious merchant, and has draws

NO DESIRE TO SELL OUT.

He so informed Wilkins. Later in the day Wilkins returned to the store and again bantered Mr. Thorn for a trade. Mr. Thorn had not changed his mind and again decline

"Well, just as you please about that," said Wilkins, in an easy, agreeable style, "but I like your store; I think you have a nice place here, and I would like to have it. I will pay cash for it. And I'll tell you what I'll do: I'll give you cost for your stock, pay you $300 for your horse and wagon, and give you $500 bonus, but I will not make the trade unless you agree to stay with me three months at $75

"Well, that's a good offer," said Mr. Thorn "and I'll go see my wife. If you will wait until I come back I'll give you an answer."
"Well, I'll wait, but I must have an answer well, I'm walt, but I must have an answer soon. Mr. Culberson up here on the corner wants to sell to me, but I had rather have your place. By the way, Mr. I. S. Mitchell is an old friend of mine. I was out to dine with him to-day and if you will stop to see him he will tell you about me."

Mr. Thorn realized that he had struck a good offer and, hurrying home. Juid it hefore his offer and, hurrying home, laid it before his wife. Mrs. Thorn told her husband that he had better act for himself. Mr. Thorn then consulted his uncle, who advised him to trade. He returned to the store and in a short while consummated a trade with Wilkins. They agreed that stock should be taken at once, and that on Monday morning THE MONEY SHOULD BE PAID DOWN

THE MONEY SHOULD BE PAID DOWN and Mr. Thorn should get out. Thursday afternoon Wilkins and Mr. Thorn, aided by a clerk hired for the occasion, began "taking stock." The store was well equipped and late that night the work went on. The next day the job was continued and late that night. Again Saturday the work was resumed, and when it was completed Sunday was near at hand. During the three days the inventory was being taken both Wilkins and Mr. Thorn was being taken both Wilkins and Mr. Thori waited on customers. IThe sale dated from Thursday, and of course the receipts after that date went with the store.

Mr. Thorn had in stock several gallons of fine liquor, which he sold to his customers for domestic purposes. His line of cigars was fine too. During the "three days" Wilkins was inroduced to a great many of Mr. Thorn's regular customers, and to these Wilkins set up cigar or a drink of fine liquor. On Saturday when the clock struck twelve Mr. Thern and Wilkins quit work. The inventory then showed that the stock on hand amounted to $3,914.26 and that the accounts from April 1 amounted to $185.75. These together with the $500 bonus, made Wilkins owe Mr. Thorn $4,599. Wilkins was to give his check for the money Monday

Before locking up Wilkins went to the drawer, took out the cash that came in during the day, and put it in his pocket. He then stuffed a beg full of paper, and walking up to the safe, said:

"Mr. Thorn, lock up this money."
Mr. Thorn saw the bag laid into the safe and locked it up. He then went home and slept. Sundsy his many friends congratulated him upon the sale he had made, and Mr. Thorn sent letters to all to whom he was indebted notifying them that he had sold out and asking them to send in the bills and get their money.

their money.

THE PURCHASER FAILS TO COME UP.

Yesterdey morning Mr. Thorn reached his place quite early. He was anxious to get the check for $4,599, and to begin work for his employer. Soven cited his cited he compined to the compine of Wilking. in good order and patiently waited the coming of Wilkins. Seven o'clock, eight o'clock and nine o'clock came, but Wilkins did not.
Mr. Thorn then opened his safe, and in money sack put there by, Wilkins. He opened the sack and found that it contained $11 in money and a handful of paper. This aroused Mr. Thorn's suspicion and he wont direct to the Grant house. There he ascertained that the Grant house. There he ascertained tha Wilkins had suddenly disappeared on Sunday, and that his baggage had gone too. He left only one thing at the hotel and that was his board bill, amounting to $12.

Mr. Thorn could not understand it. He was thunderstruck. He went straight to Mr. I. S. Mitchell and asked him about his friend Wilkins. Mr. Mitchell and Wilkins had not dined with him. This convinced Mr. Thorn that he had been victimized, and he sought Chief Connolly, to whom he described Wilkins, and to whom he related the case. The chief detailed detect-ives to look into the matter, and in a short while it was reliably assertained that Wilkins

Mr. Thorn cannot tell how much he has lost. He puts the money taken in and carried off at about $60, and to this he adds a box of cigars and several drinks of good liquor given away.

Everybody who met Wilkins say that he was an affable, agreeable man, and that he could insinuate himself into a stranger's good will without trouble. He was about fitty-two years of age, about five feet nine inches, and would weigh 165 pounds. His hair is turning gray. He wore a short gray mustache. Twenty-four members were received into the First Presbyterian church Sunday. The services in the Central Presbyterian church are still in progress, and much inter-est is manifested. At the First Baptist church last night a large number arose for prayer, and all seemed deeply concerned. Rev. N. Bachman, the distinguished evangelist, is in the city, and is assisting Dr. Barnett in his revival services.

The evening meetings at the First Baptist church was begun last night, and there was a deep manifestation of interest. The services at the First Presbyterian church will be continued through this week. A great deal of interest has been manifested and the meeting promises good results. Quite a number have already been received into the membership of the Central Presby-terian church. A short prayer service will be held at the church this afternoon at 4 p.m.

Dr. J. W. Backman, of Chattanooga, is in the city, and will preach every night this week in the basement of the courthouse. His sermon last night was an able one, and was well received by the large audience. Rev. H. M. Wharton, of Baltimore, is assisting Dr. Hawtherne at the First Baptist church this week in conducting revival ser-vices. He is preaching to large congregations with marked effect.

Dr. Montgomery preached at the Second Baptist church last evening to a full congrega-tion. His sermon was exceedingly impres-sive. He took hold at once upon the atten-tion and hearts of his hearers. He will certainly do great good, here. The public are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

Not since Thomas' orchestra charmed the ears and delighted the intelligence of the Mobile public, has there been heard such exquisite music as was performed last evening at the theater by the Typical Mexicans.

This orchesta from the city of Mexico deserves the name it wears, for it is thoroughly typical of a national school of music. There is shown in it the Spanish sensitiveness to tone, intensified by a warmth which is perhaps inseparable from the character of the children of the south, and the concert lastevening was a representation of the modification of the older method by the new elements naturally springing into being in the great country beyond the Rio Grande. It may be said in a general way that the Mexican school is distinguished by an attention to harmonic effect, while in delicacy of execution and shading it is in no way inferior to its parent.

Mr. Bonner lives in Macon and no one is better known than he. Strangers can rely upon the statement he makes:

In August, 1881, it was discovered that my son's wife was in the last stages of consump tion. She was coughing incessantly, and times would discharge quantities of pus from her lungs, could not sleep or retain anything on her stomach, and we thought it only a question of time when life would be compelled to give way to the fell destroyer, After all other remedies failed, we got

Brewer's Lung Restorer

And began it in very small doses, as she was yery weak. She soon began to improve; continued the remedy and was restored to life and health, and is to-day better than she has ever been before. I regard her restoration as nearly a miracle, for which she is indebted to BREWER'S LUNG RESTORER.

THE LOSS OF BLOOD BY HEMOR-RHAGES.

generational Scene in the Early Morning—The Dos ters and the Family Hestily Summoned to the General's Bedside—The Latest Salletins —Other Incidents of the Day, Sto.

New York, April 7 .- About 3:45 o'lock this orning, a messenger boy dashed hurriedly lown the steps of General Grant's house and shed toward the telegraph office in Madison enue, near Sixty sixth street. The lad held n his hand two notes, one addressed to Doctor H. B. Sands and the other to Doctor George F. Shrady. A few minutes after another mesenger boy rushed out of the Grant' residence bearing notes for Senator Chaffee, General Badeau and Parson Newman. General Badea was the first to arrive, being driven rapidly in a carriage to the door. He immediate ly rushed up stairs, was admitted, and proceeded at once to General Grant's room. A horse at full gallop dragged the coupe of Dr. Shrady up to lep dragged the coupe of Dr. Shrany up to the door at 4:55, a. m. The physician dashed up the steps impetuously, as if he had been sent for in a hurry. A few minutes later Dr. Sands arrived, bearing a case of instruments, although it was afterwards learned that no aurgical operation was necessary. U. S. Grant, Jr., and Senator Chaffee reached the house about five minutes past five, evidently in great perturbation.

THE CAUSE OF THE RUSH.

Dr. Shrady in response to question, said that Dr. Douglas was quietly sitting by General Grant, when the latter suddenly had a slight henorrhage from the throat. Dr. Douglas took such measures as were necessary, and sent for Drs. Sands and Shrady. General Grant said:

"There is no use sending for the other doc-"There is no use sending for the other doctors; you are enough."
General Grant spat about two ounces of blood, and then wiped the traces from his face with his hand, and appeared calm and collected. Senator Chaffee left the house at 6:15. He said: "He had injection of morphine at 6 a. m., and I think he will live through the day. He lost a teacupful of blood. He was so much collected that he directed those attending him to hold the vessel so that no blood would reach the floor." od would reach the floor,'

Dr. Newman arrived about 5:45 a. m. Dr. Shrady at 7 o'clock said General Grant was seleep and that he was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. He also stated that Dr. Douglas was taking much needed rest. At 9:30 a. m. General Geant awake. His pulse was the same. No return awoke. His pulse was the same. No return of hemorrhage was observed. THE CAUSE OF THE HEMORRHAGE. The hemorrhage in General Grant's throat this morning was an accident that had been feared by those nearest to the patient. The immediate result was not strangulation, as had been anticipated by those in attendance had been anticipated by those in attendance and by the general himself. Just how serious the result would be on the general condition of the patient, could not be forefold early in he morning, but at 8:30 a.m., there was no perceptible increase of debility or weakness caused by the loss of blood. At 8:30 General Grant, under influence of morphis, was sleeping in a sitting posture. Drs. Douglas and Shrady were present. The hemorrhage in the general's throat ceased naturally and without any styptic applications. It is, of course, possible that the crisis may occur today, but the probability of such a turn during day light is scarcely entertained among those best justed as to the general's coadition. Sendeplight is scarcely entertained among those lest jotted as to the general's condition. Senter Chaffee's opinion this morning is that General Grant may not die during the day, and such is the opinion of well posted persons who have no incentive or bent to be alarmites, though all hold themselves in readiness for any critical developments. The hemorphage this morning in General Grant's throat was arterial, and not venous blood. The general seems not at all alarmed and the family when the property greatly frightened. The hemorphage was due somewhat to the increase of the e was due somewhat to the increase of the ise, and was induced by a momentary fit of coughing. The probabilities are that he may survive the day.

At 11 a. m., General Grant's condition re-mains unchanged. He has taken his food without pain. His pulse is still steady and without pain. His pulse is still steady and reacobably firm. There is no more hemorphage. His mind is clear. He replies to questions, and gives evidence of the same uncomplaining firmness which has characterized him during his entire sickness.

THE CONDITION OF THE GENERAL.

Dr. Barker was seen after consultation to-

Dr. Barker was seen after consultation today, when he was leaving General Grant's house. He said that the general was considerably weaker, takes his food only on solicitation and under protest, and is liable to a recurrence of the hemorrhage at any moment.
At 11:45 a. m., J. Frederick Elmane, the Peruvian minister at Washington called at General Grant's house. He did not see the general.
When he came out he said that he had met General Grant at Pekin, when the general was traveling around the world, and became well acquainted with Mrs. Grant. At 12:10 p. m., one of the clerks of the board of aldermen called, and presented an engrossed copy of he resolutions adopted by the board yesterday. He was told that General Grant had passed a very restless night.

he resolutions adopted by the board yesterday. He was told that General Grant had passed a very restless night.

Drs. Barker, Douglas, Shrady and Sands, fere in consultation between two and three clock. When Dr. Barker left had been so the second of General Grant had the general was considerably weaker, and hat he took food under protest. He was lable at any moment to have a recurrence of the hemorrhage. Mrs. F. D. Grant, during the evening, sent a message to Mrs. Potter Palmer, her sister, whe is in Georgis, stating that the general was much worse. General Grant's wife did not go with the family to dine to-day. She had her meals served in the library where the family watches and waits through the day. Doctor Shrady arrived at General Grant's house at 6:15 p. m. He had with him many instruments, which were brought as a precaution against bleeding in the night. U. S. Grant, son of Orville Grant, left the house at 5:20. He said that the rumor that the general had chatted with his nephew briefly, and was clear of mind,

Dr. Newman. at the request of General

Dr. Newman, at the request of General Grant, was sent for about 3 p.m. The clerman remained with the general until Grant and Dr. Douglas were in the room.

Dr. Newman had spoken of the friendly feeling of the people at large, and the great number of friends the general had.

"And I have a great many on the other side, (co," said the general.

"Yes, that is true, and they are waiting for yos, general, they are waiting for yos, general, they are waiting for yos, general, they are waiting for yos."

"Ah, yes! and I wish they would come," replied General Grant.

Dr. Newman said that never in his life did he see such an expression of peaceful satisfaction as that on the general's face as he uttered heae words. Dr. Newman dreaded the hours from midnight to dawn. The Edoctors hought, he said, that they might tide him wer midnight, but not to expect more.

THE RAD IS NEAR.

At seven o'clock Dr. Douglas said the end has near. He gave the impression that it hight be possible to prolong until morning, and the effort to protract life by artificial heads was hardly desirable, and besides that he general wished to die. He was tired and the general wished to die. He was tired and the standard was not far by Shrade was not far by Shrade was not far

Shrady said he was prepared for an
